Baden-Powell Scouts' Association
Activities Policy

The Baden-Powell Scouts' Association programme actively encourages its members to take part in adventurous outdoor activities in the spirit of the ideas of our founder contained in 'Scouting For Boys'.

We encourage the children in our care to experience risk, decision making, planning and adventure throughout the programme as a means to better educate them for the challenges of adult life.

Any activities under consideration for inclusion in a Group's activity programme should be checked and benchmarked against the latest version of the Associations Qualifications and Supervision document which is available to download from the members area of the website or on request from the Associations Insurance Adviser.

Alongside ensuring that the correct qualifications, supervision and first aid requirements are met all activities must be undertaken with a risk assessment process in place before proceeding.

Any incidents or accidents should be recorded on a First Aid record form and in the Camp Return process. These records should be kept confidential under GDPR rules and only returned to the Group's GSM for onward communication to the AC and Association Insurance Advisor. Information contained in such returns will be used to shape and revise the Qualifications and Supervision document.
